

Andrea Flori is currently a PhD Candidate in Economics at IMT School for Advanced Studies (Lucca). He received both his bachelor degree in Economics of Financial Markets (2008) and a Master of Science in Finance (2010) at University of Siena. He worked until 2013 as financial planner and controller at Cassa Depositi e Prestiti SpA. From 2013 he is part of the Laboratory for the Analysis of complex Economic System (AXES) at IMT. From October 2015 to February 2016 he spent a period at University of Bath (School of Management) as Visiting Postgraduate Scholar. Previously, in 2010 he spent a semester at the European Business School in Frankfurt. In 2015 he received a research contract in the PRIN project on "Climate change in the Mediterranean area: scenarios, economic impacts, mitigation policies and technological innovation" financed by the Italian Ministry of Education, University and Research (MIUR). His main research interests are financial stability, systemic risk, bank regulation, network theory and performance analysis.